PivotHealth Names Louise Malone Vice President of Operations

Nashville, Tenn. — June 25, 2010 — PivotHealth, a leading physician practice management and services company based in Nashville, Tenn., announced today that Louise Malone has been selected as Vice President of Operations.

Malone has more than 30 years experience in the healthcare industry, most recently as Chief Operating Officer at Queens-Long Island Medical Group, P.C. of Garden City, New York. There she was responsible for management and improvement of the day-to-day operations of 22 multi-specialty medical offices.

“Louise’s invaluable experience overseeing operations and knowledge of the industry makes her a perfect addition to PivotHealth,” said John Phillips, president of PivotHealth. “We are confident that her expertise and leadership skills will have a positive impact on our company as a whole.”

As Vice President of Operations, Malone will serve as the Chief Operating Officer for Preferred Health Partners, one of PivotHealth’s clients.

Malone holds a B.S. of Health Care Management from St. Francis College, an M.B.A. of Management and Organizational Behavior from Pace University and an R.N. from Queens Hospital Center School of Nursing.
