PivotHealth Names Carol Alexander Senior Vice President, Consulting

(Nashville, Tenn., March 21, 2011) – PivotHealth, a leading physician practice management and services company based in Nashville, Tenn., has named Carol Alexander Senior Vice President of Consulting. In this role, Alexander will be responsible for managing major client engagements and relationships, while helping them meet their goals and objectives.

"Carol brings more than 25 years of healthcare experience, strong leadership ability and a proven success record that will deliver valuable service to and impact for our clients," said John Phillips, President of PivotHealth. "She is clearly one of the top healthcare executives in the practice management industry, possessing both consultative and operational expertise proven by real world success."

Prior to joining PivotHealth, Alexander served as Chief Executive Officer at PAPP Clinic, P.C., in Newnan, Ga. While at PAPP, Alexander successfully developed and implemented a five-year strategy and tactical plan that rebuilt practice infrastructure through capital equipment upgrades and the implementation of a practice management system, EHR, digital imaging, and a new telecommunication system. The Clinic is better positioned for the future to lead within its region as a result of the work she led.

Previously, Alexander was Senior Vice President at Health Direction, LLC, in Chicago, Ill., where she was responsible for more than $1 million a year in new business development, strategic planning for the firm, and new consultant development.

Alexander holds a bachelor's degree from Mercer University and a master's degree in business administration from Auburn University.
