PivotHealth, LLC Acquired ClinixMIS, ASP to the Healthcare Industry

(Brentwood, TN - January 1, 2006) – Executives with PivotHealth, LLC, a physician practice management company, announced today that they have acquired controlling interest in ClinixMIS, LLC. ClinixMIS is an Application Service Provider (ASP) that delivers accounts receivable and practice management software and related services through the Internet or their corporate Wide Area Network (WAN) to two elements of the national healthcare industry; physicians and medical billing companies.

“This acquisition expands PivotHealth’s service offerings into the growing arena of ASP technology solutions for physician practices and billing companies. By working with a solid, 20-year provider of practice management technology solutions, ClinixMIS is a great fit for our business model,” said John Phillips, president of PivotHealth Consulting Company.

Under terms of the new deal, Jerry Killough will own a significant share of the company and will continue to serve as President and CEO of ClinixMIS, a position he has held for the past ten years. Mr. Killough states, “We are excited to have access to PivotHealth’s experienced team and to benefit from their relationships with medical groups around the country.”

“ClinixMIS’ depth of programming experience allows their cutting edge technology to develop real time interfaces with various electronic medical record, lab, document management and other systems. This satisfies a need we are seeing with all sizes of medical groups and provides significant opportunities. This best practice approach will greatly benefit physicians,” said Mike McClintock, president and CEO of PivotHealth Management Company. “The technology infrastructure of a group practice is often the very pulse of that practice and we believe the future is in ASP-based technologies.”
