PivotHealth, LLC Lands Management Contract for Queens-Long Island

NASHVILLE, Tenn.--(BUSINESS WIRE) -- Feb. 13, 2006 -- PivotHealth, LLC., a provider of physician practice management and consulting services nationwide, announced today that they have been selected by Queens-Long Island Medical Group of New York to provide overall group management and practice services to the 300 physician group. The multi-year services contract increases PivotHealth's role in the Queens-Long Island practice and continues the company's rapid growth in the physician practice management business.

"The Queens-Long Island Medical Group is the largest private medical group in the New York Metropolitan area and is without a doubt one of the largest and best known medical groups in the northeastern United States, with a solid history of serving patients across the New York City area," said John Phillips, president of PivotHealth, LLC, a physician practice management and consulting company. "PivotHealth is perfectly poised to help them continue to grow and effectively manage that growth into the next three years."

"We are honored to have been awarded this engagement. We believe this will enhance PivotHealth's reputation as having an unparalleled track record in the areas of optimizing physician leadership and repairing and enhancing medical group relationships with hospital systems and payors," stated Mike McClintock, President of PivotHealth Management Company. The company offers group contract management, turnaround planning and implementations, patient satisfaction surveying and specialized consulting services.
